Cromlix Aces AA Hospitality Awards

Andy Murray's Cromlix hotel in Perthshire confirmed its position as top seed in the Scottish hotel industry at the AA Hospitality Awards on Monday (26 September).

The five-star hotel beat off stiff competition to claim the Hotel of the Year (Scotland) award, which is the AA's ultimate accolade for hotels in the UK, recognising outstanding establishments within the hospitality industry.

The award is the fifth in a series that Cromlix has won since opening in 2014, with the Scottish Hotel Awards naming the property as Luxury Hotel of the Year earlier this year.

Graeme Green, General Manager at Cromlix, commented: "It is a great achievement to win the Scottish Hotel of the Year category in this year's prestigious AA Hospitality Awards.

"This accolade is a credit to the entire team at Cromlix. Our guests frequently comment on their dedication and professionalism and I am very proud to reward their commitment to excellence by bringing home this award.

"We are all extremely pleased with the continuing success of the hotel and look forward to future achievements."

Introduced in 1992, the AA Hospitality Awards are held annually and attended by the travel and tourism industry's top hoteliers, restaurants and chefs.

Alistair Sandall, Commercial Manager, AA Hotel & Hospitality Services, added: "I would like to congratulate Graeme and the team at Cromlix on securing this great award.

"This is a fantastic achievement and one that everyone involved should be very proud of."

Set in 34 acres of secluded woodland and gardens, Cromlix boasts 10 bedrooms, five suites and a gate lodge as well as a Chez Roux restaurant overseen by world-renowned chef Albert Roux OBE KFO.

The grounds of the hotel also sport a tennis court and practice wall finished in the famous Wimbledon colours.
